Vancouver, WA – Tedd Huffman has been named as the new Mount St. Helens National Volcanic Monument Manager. Tedd will succeed Tom Mulder who retired in January. “I am extremely pleased to be welcoming Tedd and his wife to the Gifford Pinchot National Forest,” said Gifford Pinchot National Forest Supervisor, Janine Clayton. “Tedd brings a depth of land management experience and will be an excellent partner with our communities in caring for the Monument”.

Huffman comes to the Gifford Pinchot after serving as the Soil and Water Program Manager on the Umpqua National Forest in southwestern Oregon since 2012. Huffman will begin his new role early May.

An Ohio native, Huffman has a bachelor’s degree in forest management from Michigan Technological University, and a master’s degree in watershed science from Colorado State University.

Huffman’s other national forest assignments include the Monongahela National Forest in West Virginia; the Cibola National Forest in New Mexico; the Allegheny National Forest in Pennsylvania; and the Arapaho-Roosevelt National Forest in Colorado. He began his Forest Service career in 2001.

“I am very excited to get to know and work with the employees and communities surrounding the Monument and Gifford Pinchot National Forest,” said Huffman. “Mount St. Helens is a very special place and I am honored to contribute to this treasured landscape”.
